What is Vincristine Sulfate Injection?

Vincristine Sulfate Injection is a chemotherapeutic medicine that is used to treat some types of leukaemia (white blood cell cancer), such as acute myeloid leukaemia (AML, ANLL) and acute lymphoblastic leukaemia (ALL), Hodgkin's lymphoma (Hodgkin's disease), and non-lymphoma. Wilms tumour (a type of kidney cancer that affects children), neuroblastoma (a cancer that starts in nerve cells and affects mostly children), and rhabdomyosarcoma are all treated with vincristine in combination with other chemotherapy medications (cancer that forms in muscles in children). Vincristine belongs to a group of drugs known as vinca alkaloids. It works by reducing or preventing cancer cell development in the body.

How to Use It

- Vincristine Sulfate Injection is available as a liquid solution that is administered intravenously (into a vein) by a healthcare professional in a medical center. It is typically administered once a week. Treatment duration is determined by the drugs you are receiving, how well your body reacts to them, and the cancer types you have.

- If you have specific adverse effects, your specialist may need to postpone your treatment or adjust your dose.
- During your vincristine sulfate injection treatment, your doctor may advise you to use a stool softener or laxative to assist prevent constipation.

Vincristine Sulfate Injection - How It Works

It prevents cancer cells from replicating their genetic material (DNA). As a result, cancer cell development and multiplication are prevented.
